

Hello Charger Families!

November 13, 2020

Take a look in your child's backpack today....Progress report are coming home!

The staff have been busy this past month assessing and preparing student Progress Reports. The purpose of the Progress Report is to communicate your child's general progress at this point in the year in working towards the achievement of the curriculum expectations. Imbedded in the Progress Report are next steps for the student. It is important for parents to celebrate the successes in the report and encourage improvement in learning by discussing the recommended next steps with their child. Learning is an active process, and it is important for the student to understand how they can demonstrate improvement through self-assessment and goal setting. I encourage you to set small achievable goals with your child.

Parent and school connections is an invaluable part of the education of students. In the past there was a day in our calendar for meetings with teachers to discuss the Progress Report. Parent Interviews will not be held this year on a specific day. However, communication with your child's teachers is always available. Call the school or contact the teacher directly if you would like to discuss the progress report and next steps for learning.

Thank you-

Thank you, Mr., Marten, Mrs. Haimerl, and team for creating a wonderful Remembrance Day Service video for us to watch on Nov 11. It was very special and so nice to see students participating.

Thank you, parents and guardians, for helping us all to be safe at Jack Chambers by following all of the protocols including dropping off/picking up students, waiting patiently after you ring the doorbell for us to come and understanding that we are doing our best every day for our students.

Be Safe, wash your hands and enjoy Fall!
